On April 6th great improvement had taken place; the signs of the cavity had become much less evident; the sides appeared to be approaching each other; and pectoriloquy could no longer be detected. Case VII. Cavities in both Lungs--Great Improvement under the use of Oxalic Acid. Mrs. G, setat. thirty-three, lost her mother and a brother from consumption. She had been ailing for some considerable period, but did not suffer much from cough until the last two years; it was generally accompanied by expectoration, hoarseness, and difficulty of breathing, deficient appetite, and irregular bowels. The catamenia, although scanty, has been regular. November 2nd I made an examination of the chest. Depression existed on both sides, and expansion was also deficient on both sides; dulness on percussion was...
