It will generally be found that where a publisher has paid some attention to these two points a third quality - beauty - hardly less essential than the other two will have been attained. Publishers sometimes sacrifice legibility to secure a decorative effect on the page, by using very light or very heavy type, or type of peculiar design. Legibility further depends on the leading or spacing between the lines and on the quality of the ink and paper. The strength or durability of a volume depends on the paper and binding. It should be remembered that the price at which a volume is sold exerts a great influence on all these points. Paper that would be excellent in a volume costing fifty cents would be poor in a five dollar book.
